

Technical Solutions invited to convention

Technical Solutions, a provider of unified communications, announced that Gene Wells, the company's president, will attend Technology Assurance Group's 15th annual convention. The event will take place April 19-22 at Savannah, Ga.

TAG is an international association of independently owned, unified communications companies representing nearly $350 million in products and services in the industry.

The overarching goal is to unveil and share practices that make each company deliver a better customer experience from start to finish. The event is invite-only and is reserved for elite organizations with a track record of innovation, customer-centric business philosophy and a desire to serve their local communities.

"This event is always packed with new ideas that keep us at the forefront of new developments in our rapidly advancing field," Wells said. "We find it very valuable to collaborate with other CEOs, owners and high-performers to identify new ways of doing things."

Experts in voice, managed information technology services, security/surveillance, audio visual, structured cabling and managed print solutions will all be in attendance, said Brian Suerth, TAG president.

Source: Technical Solutions

