

Firm offers cloud conferencing

Technical Solutions, a provider of unified communications, announced the company will now provide cloud video conferencing solutions to its customers.

Technical Solutions cloud video conferencing technology enables end users to cost-effectively collaborate via video with standard high-definition conference room systems, computers, Web browsers, tablets and smartphones.

The interoperable cloud video service requires no hardware, is easy to use and allows users to communicate face-to-face without traveling anywhere.

Source: Technical Solutions

